FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Klipsch Speaker ‘The Three’ with the Google Assistant Built In Now Available

INDIANAPOLIS, IND. (November 29, 2018) — Klipsch®, a tech-driven audio company is pleased to announce that its next generation Heritage Wireless table-top speaker The Three with the Google Assistant built in is now available. The Three with the Google Assistant built in blends nostalgic mid-century modern design, award-winning acoustics, and robust connectivity with the addition of a personal, helpful digital assistant.

Klipsch speaker The Three with the Google Assistant built in is designed to make daily tasks faster and easier. Functionality includes: the ability to ask questions and get information, stream music, hear the news, weather and traffic, add to shopping list, control smart home devices, make a phone call, and much more. The Three with the Google Assistant built in features a genuine walnut veneer cabinet with a heather gray grille cloth. The unique design and powerful sound of The Three with the Google Assistant will remain consistent with the standard edition of the speaker.

The award-winning Klipsch Heritage Wireless speaker The Three is a powerful stereo tabletop with an integrated subwoofer for enhanced bass. The speaker incorporates a mid-century modern design, premium materials such as real wood veneer, and aluminum switches and knobs, and Bluetooth® wireless technology.

Klipsch Heritage Wireless speaker The Three with the Google Assistant built in (RRP £450.00) is available now at authorized retailers.
